National Register of Historic Places
Nomination Guide

STATE HISTORIC PRESERVATION
OFFICE OF IOWA
IOWA DEPARTMENT OF CULTURAL AFFAIRS
The Basics of Nominating a Property

Nominating a property for the National Register of Historic Places can be an exciting yet lengthy journey, involving research, preparation, documentation and multiple reviews.

Throughout the nomination and review process you are responsible for all research, writing and revisions. You may choose to hire a professional historian or researcher to nominate the property.

1 Research and Evaluation
The first step is to research and evaluate the property you wish to nominate. It should be evaluated using the National Park Service's Criteria for Evaluation. Extensive historical research and documentation are required to determine the significance and integrity of the property. If you are not working with a historian or architectural historian to evaluate your property, please complete the Historic Preliminary Evaluation form online prior to beginning work on a nomination.

2 Preparation
The next step is to prepare the digital Nomination Form. This is how you will document the details about the property, how it meets the evaluation criteria, its significance and integrity, and more. Detailed instructions on how to prepare nomination materials are provided.

3 Submission
Once you've completed the nomination form and reviewed the Nomination Form Preparation Checklist, you may submit the nomination digitally to the State Historic Preservation Office. You can request a group review meeting as little as 30 days after submission.

4 Review by State Historic Preservation Office
Nomination forms may undergo several reviews by the State Historic Preservation Office of Iowa. During this time the preservation office will work with you and provide feedback to strengthen your nomination.

5 Review by State Nominations Review Committee
When the nomination has passed the final review by the State Historic Preservation Office of Iowa it will be submitted to the State Nominations Review Committee. This committee is made up of professionals in architecture, archaeology, architectural history, as well as interested citizens. Committee meetings are open to the public and held three times each year to review drafts of nominations. If the nomination is approved by the State Nominations Review Committee it will be submitted to the National Park Service for final review and listing.

6 Listing on the National Register of Historic Places
The final review and approval of a nomination rests with the National Park Service. Owners, consultants and elected officials are notified of listing in writing. If your nomination is not approved you may appeal the decision.
Research and Evaluation

The first step is to research and evaluate the property you wish to nominate. It should be evaluated using the National Park Service’s Criteria for Evaluation. Extensive historical research and documentation are required to determine the significance and integrity of the property. If you are nominating a moved building please contact us for additional guidance. Review the Nomination Preparation Form Checklist to get familiar with what types of information you will need to research and document.

Age and Integrity

Is the property old enough to be considered historic (generally at least 50 years old) and does it still look much the way it did in the past?

Properties less than 50 years old may be considered eligible if they are of exceptional importance and have achieved historic significance. Consult the National Park Service’s guide for evaluating and nominating properties that have achieved significance within the past fifty years.

Whether or not the property has enough physical integrity to be eligible for the National Register of Historic Places depends on the appearance of the property and whether it still possesses enough historic qualities and materials to convey its historic significance. Integrity is based on seven characteristics in what is known as “the seven aspects of integrity.” In order to maintain integrity, a property must have several and usually most of the following aspects intact: location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling and association. Consult How to Apply the National Register Criteria for Evaluation for guidance on evaluating the integrity of a property.

Significance

Is the property associated with events, activities, or developments that were important in the past? With the lives of notable people? With significant architectural history, landscape history, or engineering achievements? Does it have the potential to yield information through archaeological investigation?

When evaluated within its historic context, a property must be shown to be significant for one or more of the four criteria for evaluation: A, B, C, or D. The criteria describe how properties are significant for their association with important events or persons, for their importance in design or construction, or for their information potential.

Criterion A: Events

Properties can be eligible for the National Register if they are associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of history.

Criterion B: Person

Properties may be eligible for the National Register if they are associated with the lives of significant persons in the past.

Criterion C: Design/Construction

Properties may be eligible for the National Register if they embody the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or that represent the work of a master, or that possess high artistic values, or that represent a significant and distinguishable entity whose components may lack individual distinction.

Criterion D: Information Potential

Properties may be eligible for the National Register if they have yielded, or may be likely to yield, important information about prehistory or history.
Research Resources

Extensive historical research and documentation are required when nominating a property for the National Register of Historic Places. Local libraries, historical societies and county government offices are a good place to start.

The State Historic Preservation Office of Iowa in Des Moines houses historic and archaeological site inventories, previous nominations, Multiple Property Documentation Forms/Multiple Property Submissions, architect files and more. Documents not available online are available in person during research hours.

The collections available at the State Historical Research Centers in Des Moines and Iowa City include maps, state archives, photographs, census records, county records, newspapers, vital records and much more.

Preparation

All new National Register of Historic Places nomination drafts should be submitted digitally via email to nationalregister@iowa.gov. The following documents are included within this packet and must be used. Do not replace these forms with others or create new ones.

- Nomination Submission and Review Process Overview
- Nomination Information Form
- Nomination Form
- Nomination Form Preparation Checklist
- Multiple Property Owner List Spreadsheet (only for historic district nominations or properties with multiple owners)

All research, writing, revisions, editing, and preparation of nominations are the responsibility of whoever prepares the nomination. The State Historic Preservation Office will provide suggestions, directions, and advice throughout the revision process but will not prepare, research, edit, or write nominations for you.

Before You Begin

If you are not working with an historian or architectural historian in the preparation of your nomination, please complete the Historic Property Preliminary Evaluation form online prior to beginning a nomination.
Plagiarism, Citations and Sources

National Register of Historic Places nominations are public documents that represent the research and work of their authors. Presenting another researcher's words or ideas as one's own or without proper citation is plagiarism. This includes direct quotes and paraphrased text or ideas. In the case of draft nominations that are then later continued by new researchers, the nomination form must include the name of the original preparer(s) if any of the original text, ideas, or research is retained or used. Plagiarism.org offers additional guidance on the subject.

Footnotes are the State Historic Preservation Office of Iowa's preferred form for in-text citations. They should include the page number on which the information may be found within each source. One to three block quotes from other authors or researchers may be acceptable as long as the passage is properly cited and relevant. Reliance upon a large number of block quotes assembled from various sources, however, and the copying-and-pasting of large sections of text regardless of citation, should be avoided and the information synthesized and cited as appropriate instead. Avoid using “blanket citations” to indicate a main source of material at the beginning of the nomination in lieu of in-text citations. Additionally, bibliographies must include all sources used to prepare the nomination, including figures. The referral of readers to in-text citations instead of listing them individually in the bibliography is not acceptable. See The Chicago Manual of Style Online for further guidance on citations.

Using reliable historical sources is crucial to the accuracy of National Register of Historic Places nominations and understanding of the property. Research should focus on primary sources, which provide first-hand evidence of historical events, such as newspaper articles, property records, maps, and photographs that were created at the time the event occurred. Information on using and citing primary sources can be found on the Library of Congress website. Secondary sources, such as books, essays, or articles about a specific subject, may be used as additional reference to help provide historic context and improve understanding of the property within its time period and geographic area. Avoid the use of Wikipedia and other similar compilations of information as a source of information for nominations.
Nomination Form Preparation Checklist

Prior to submitting your nomination form, use this checklist to self-evaluate the completeness of your nomination to ensure a smooth review process. This check list is for your own personal use and should not accompany the submitted application form. If you have any questions on preparing a nomination or would like examples to follow, please contact the State Historic Preservation Office of Iowa at nationalregister@iowa.gov or (515) 281-5111.

   Example summary paragraph:
   Located on the eastern side of First Street in Anytown, Any County, Iowa, the Wadsworth Manufacturing Company is a seven bay by nine bay, two-story, Romanesque Revival style industrial building with brick exterior walls, arched windows, a corbelled brick cornice, and flat roof. Completed in 1893, it is located on a lot bordered along the east by the Big River, which flows in a southeasterly direction in this section of the city. The neighborhood is a mixed use area consisting of green spaces to the north of the building along the river, parking lots, businesses, single-family and multi-family dwellings, and municipal buildings. The building is in good condition and all seven aspects of historic integrity are present. It remains on the original site of construction and only minor alterations to design elements, setting, materials, and workmanship have occurred. Additionally, feeling and association are maintained through the building's architectural details that reflect late 19th trends.

Narrative Description

Describes the current physical characteristics of the property in the following order:

<td>Example Summary Paragraph: The Wadsworth Manufacturing Company is eligible for its local significance under Criterion A. It derives its significance from its association with an important era of industrial expansion in Anytown that saw many factories, processing plants, and railroads spreading down the eastern and western banks of the Big River during the late 19th century. Its historic associations together with its character-defining features, such as utilitarian design, two-story brick construction, and loading bays on the ground level, help to convey the specific time and place of its construction and use within Anytown’s industrial corridor. The period of significance begins in 1893, when the building was constructed, and ends in 1924, when the Wadsworth Manufacturing Company ceased business and the building became vacant.</td>

Submission

All new National Register of Historic Places nomination drafts should be submitted digitally via email to nationalregister@iowa.gov. The following documents are included within this packet and must be used. Do not replace these forms with others or create new ones.

When submitting a new nomination for consideration, place the following completed items into a zipped or compressed folder and submit to nationalregister@iowa.gov using a file transfer service for large files, such as Google Drive or Drop Box.

- Completed Nomination Information Form
- Completed Nomination Form in Microsoft Word (use the Nomination Preparation Checklist to guide completion)
- Folder with all nomination photos in jpg/jpeg format (CDs of .tiff photos and nomination in .pdf form will be requested when the nomination is ready to forward to the National Park Service)
- Completed Multiple Property Owner List Spreadsheet (only for historic district nominations or properties with multiple owners)

To ensure a timely review, be sure to complete and include all required documents within the folder. Reviews will not be scheduled unless all requested documents are completed and sent to the State Historic Preservation Office. You can request a group review meeting as little as 30 days after submission.
Review by State Historic Preservation Office

Once the complete nomination packet is received by the State Historic Preservation Office of Iowa, a meeting will be scheduled to review the first draft of the nomination with you (the preparer). This meeting will take place via phone unless an in-person meeting at the preservation office in Des Moines is requested.

Reviews

- Prior to the meeting, the team at the preservation office will review the nomination for both content and completeness.
- Comments and corrections made by the preservation office will be made in Microsoft Word with the “track changes” feature to enable collaboration between you and the reviewers.
- The phone meeting will address these comments and questions.
- Following the meeting, a copy of the draft with comments from the preservation office will be emailed to you.

Revisions

- You are responsible for making corrections and additions as needed and sending the revised draft to nationalregister@iowa.gov within approximately two weeks unless prior arrangements have been made or an earlier deadline is required due to an upcoming State Nominations Review Committee meeting.
- Your changes should be made in Microsoft Word with the “track changes” feature turned on.

Additional Reviews and Revisions

- Please consult the review schedule and be aware that many nomination forms have multiple drafts and reviews prior to being submitted to the State Nominations Review Committee.
- Nomination forms that need additional review by the preservation office after the “Deadline for State Nominations Review Committee Submission” will not be scheduled on the next State Nominations Review Committee meeting agenda. They’ll be scheduled instead for the following State Nominations Review Committee meeting.
- You are responsible for being aware of all deadlines and submitting new drafts in a timely fashion. Due to unpredictable workloads, the preservation office cannot always accommodate last-minute submissions of new drafts, especially in cases where nominations need a lot of work.
Review by State Nominations Review Committee

When a nomination is ready for review by the State Nominations Review Committee, the team at the preservation office will request that you submit the following via email to nationalregister@iowa.gov:

- A copy of the nomination form in .pdf format;
- A document containing all photos listed in the Photo Log, two photos per page and numbered, in .pdf format.

The preservation office will forward a copy of the nomination form and photos to the State Nominations Review Committee approximately six to eight weeks prior to the meeting date.

Scheduling and Attendance

State Nominations Review Committee meetings take place on the second Friday of February, June, and October of each year. You are responsible for being aware of all State Nominations Review Committee meeting dates and deadlines.

- Contact the State Historic Preservation Office at nationalregister@iowa.gov or 515-281-5111 prior to the meeting agenda being issued if there are any time conflicts.
- You will receive a meeting agenda with your scheduled time slot approximately six to eight weeks prior to the meeting.
- Time slots are pre-assigned and cannot be changed.
- You are expected to attend the review committee meeting if possible, arriving about 45 minutes prior to your scheduled time. You may leave after the committee has voted on whether to forward your nomination to the National Park Service.

Preparation

The State Historic Preservation Office will create a Power Point slide show for each nomination using the photos that you submitted with the nomination form.

- For single-property nominations, be ready to spend about five minutes presenting the nomination with the slide show and about 10 minutes addressing the committee's comments and questions.
- For historic district nominations, a total of 20 minutes for presentation and questions will be allotted.

Final Revisions

Following the State Nominations Review Committee meeting, the preservation office will review and send the meeting minutes to you via email. The minutes will include specific comments and requested changes from the committee. You will then address all committee comments and submit a revised draft (in Microsoft Word with "track changes" turned on) to nationalregister@iowa.gov. The preservation office will review the nomination for completeness, ensuring all the committee's comments and requested revisions were completed.

Final Nomination Packet

If the final draft is acceptable, the preservation office will request CDs with a .pdf copy of the nomination form and all photos in .tiff format from you. Multiple CDs may be used if all photos do not fit onto one disk. Follow the National Park Service's guidance on submitting nominations on CD by referring to "Guidance on How to Submit a Nomination on Disk." The CD(s) can either be dropped off in person at the State Historic Preservation Office during public office hours or mailed to:
